SPARK Your Interest

What is it like to be a TEACHER? Why is being a TEACHER considered one of the most respected professionals in the Philippines? What makes a teacher differently better than any other profession? What characterizes a teacher as a person and as a professional?

This Episode will provide you a chance to observe teachers in their workplace at school to answer the questions asked

TARGET Your Intended Learning Outcome

At the end of this episode, I must be able to:

- describe the personal qualities and competences of effective classroom teachers; and
- enumerate the professional characteristics of practicing teachers observed as based on the professional standards and code of ethics for the profession.

REVISIT the Learning Essentials

"My Teacher, My Hero" was a banner during the World Teachers' Day celebration in the Philippines in the years past. Are Filipino teachers, real heroes? What do you think? Why?

My answer is YES! Here are my reasons.

Personal Qualities of Filipino Teachers

To be a teacher in the Philippines is a challenging profession. Teachers serve the country just like any other hero. To be a teacher requires a lot of personal and professional qualities. These qualities make an excellent Filipino teacher an exceptional professional.

First, the teacher must have innate qualities or attributes that are exemplary and are fitted to be a teacher. These are the natural tendencies of a person. Here are some of the qualities and attributes that distinctly characterize a teacher.

OBSERVATIONS OF TEACHING -LEARNING IN ACTUAL SCHOOL ENVIRONMENT

Episode 14-The Teacher as a PERSON and as a PROFESSIONAL

Personal Qualities of Teachers and the Descriptors

Personal Qualities	What the teacher IS and DOES
• Lives with dignity that exemplifies self-respect and discipline. Likewise, respected by students, peers and the integrity and self-discipline.	This teacher is honest and has integrity, self-respect, and self.
• Takes care of one's physical, emotional, and mental well-being.	This teacher is physically, emotionally, and mentally healthy. Clean and neat, dressed appropriately, and pleasant in words and action.
• Lives a life inspired by spiritual principles and beliefs.	This teacher behaves according to personal spiritual beliefs that are not contrary to the norms, mores, and traditions of the community.
• Exhibits deep knowledge and understanding across disciplines.	This teacher is mentally alert, makes correct decisions, intelligent to be able to acquire new knowledge, skills, and values needed to teach. She/he can learn new things, re-learn old knowledge in new ways, and unlearn | knowledge, skills, and values that are no longer applicable to the current times.
• Recognizes own strength with humility	This teacher sets high goals for himself/herself but remains | humble and willing to share success. He/She is confident of doing tasks but does not consider self to be better than others all the time.
• Perseveres in a challenging situation	This teacher is calm in the midst of chaos, remains steadfast under pressure, does not easily give up, and adjusts to different situations
• Demonstrates a natural action to work together with others.	This teacher volunteers tasks for others, is always willing to share, extends help willingly, accepts responsibility, tolerant of other people, and gives up time for the group.

Not everyone has these qualities, hence not everyone can be a good teacher. As the old saying goes: "Teachers are born but good teachers are both born and made"

Professional Competences of Filipino Teachers

Going to teacher training institutions and earning a teaching degree mean developing a professional teacher like you. You can only become a professional teacher if you earn a degree to teach in either elementary level or high school level. You should also earn a license to teach by passing a licensure examination for teachers. While studying in college you are learning the ropes of becoming a professional teacher. You learn the content courses including the major or specialization and the professional courses including the pedagogy courses. Your professional courses include experiential learning courses that include Field Study 1, Field Study 2 and Teaching Internship. These are important in your preparation to become professional teachers.

So what are the professional competencies that every teacher should have? You will find these in the matrix that follow.

Professional Competencies of Filipino Teachers

Professional Competencies	What the teacher DOES
• Abides by the code of ethics for the profession	This teacher practices the rules and conduct of professional teachers.
• Masters the subject matter to be taught	This teacher masters and updates himself/herself with the subject matter content to be taught.
• Updates oneself on educational trends, policies, and curricula	This teacher keeps abreast with educational trends, policies, and curricula by taking up graduate studies, and attending seminars and workshops.
• Uses teaching methods to facilitate student learning	This teacher practices different ways of teaching appropriate to the learners and the subject matter
• Builds support network with parents and community	This teacher engages the cooperation of parents and stakeholders in educating the learners.
• Demonstrates knowledge, understanding of the characteristics and needs of the diverse learners	This teacher has substantial knowledge of the characteristics and needs of learners.
• Plans, prepares and implements school curriculum responsibly	This teacher plans, prepares, implements and innovates the day-to-day curriculum with the view in mind that learners will learn.
• Designs, selects and utilizes appropriate assessment strategies and tools	This teacher designs, selects and uses appropriate assessment tools for, as, and of learning.
• Provides a safe, secure, fair physical and psychological learning environment that supports learning.	This teacher arranges the classroom to provide a safe, secure psychological learning environment that supports and encourages learning.

• Serves beyond the call of duty	This teacher does task and works even beyond the official time when needed.

So, it is not easy to become a professional teacher. The demand is great. A qualified professional teacher is like a HERO.

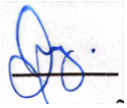

Now you are ready to identify if the enumerated characteristics are found among the teachers you are going to observe.

There are two observation activities in this Episode. Activity 1 will identify the Personal Characteristics of the Teacher and Activity 2 will identify the Professional Competencies of the Teacher.

Did you learn from your observation of the teacher? Now let us analyze the information that you have gathered.

Answer the following questions.

1. In Activity 1, what do you consider as the 3 most outstanding significant personal qualities of the teacher you chose as your case? Why do you consider these as outstanding?

a.) Determined - This is outstanding because the teacher does not give up on students and makes sure everyone understands the lesson, showing commitment and persistence.
b.) Cooperative - This is outstanding because the teacher works well with students and encourages teamwork, creating a positive and supportive learning environment.
c.) Dignified - This is outstanding because the teacher maintains respect and professionalism at all times, which sets a good example and earns students' respect.

2. Which of these qualities do you have? Do you think you can fit as a good teacher someday? _____ Why? Describe yourself.
   - I believe l possess all of the qualities presented above except for being fully knowledgeable, as l am still learning and know there are many things I need to understand to develop this quality.I consider myself calm and respectful, like the teacher I observed. I am committed to learning and willing to help others understand concepts clearly, which shows my determination,I also value honesty, kindness, and teamwork, reflecting my spiritual and cooperative side. I am open to feedback and eager to learn from others. With these qualities, I believe I can guide and support students effectively creating a respectful and encouraging classroom environment. As for the qualities I have yet to fully develop, l am confident that I can acquire them over time as I continue learning and growing toward becoming a good teacher.

Episode 14-The Teacher as a PERSON and as a PROFESSIONAL

Good teachers are role models, whether in school, at home, or in the community. From the teachers that you had from elementary to college, did the personal qualities that they possess, help you learn better as a student?

Identify one personal characteristic of your model teacher that has made a great impact on your life as a learner. Reflect and describe how this quality influenced you.

- When I think of a good teacher, Maam Selina, my Grade 8 Science teacher, immediately comes to mind.One personal quality that stands out is her determination. Every day, she crossed a river to reach our school, yet she never complained or considered transferring to a school closer to her home. Despite these daily challenges, she remained committed to teaching us and ensuring that we had access to quality education.

  Her determination influenced me greatly as a learner. Seeing her face and overcome obstacles to teach us taught me the value of perseverance and commitment. Whenever l encountered difficult tasks or felt like giving up, I remembered her example and pushed myself to try harder. Her dedication showed me that challenges are not reasons to quit but opportunities to grow.Because of her, I learned to approach learning with resilience and a strong sense of purpose. She is also one of the reasons why I chose this course, as I aspire to follow in her footsteps

JEWEL B. OCTA

Your Name and Signature (Pre-Service Student)

Did you learn from your observation and interview about the teacher's professional competencies? Now let us analyze the data.

Answer the following questions

1. In Activity 2, do you consider the Teacher as a Professional Teacher? In what competencies is the teacher Strong? _____ Weak? _____ Doubtful? _____ Why?
- Yes, I definitely consider Sir Rommel Maninang Jr. a professional teacher. He consistently demonstrates mastery of his subject matter and applies effective teaching strategies that engage students throughout the lesson. His strong competencies include content knowledge and pedagogy, classroom management, and compassionate teaching. He also exhibits a high sense of responsibility by preparing well-organized lesson plans and integrating innovation in his classes. In terms of weaknesses, there were no significant areas observed that could be considered "weak". As for doubtful competencies, none were observed since he consistently displayed professionalism, preparedness, and genuine care for his learners.

2. Did your answers to the survey form coincide with the answers of the co-teacher or head of the teacher you observed?
Why?

- Yes, my answers closely coincided with those of the co-teacher and supervisor. They also described Sir Rommel as a dedicated and competent educator who demonstrates excellence in teaching and a strong commitment to his learners' holistic development. We shared similar observations about his passion, his ability to build a positive classroom environment, and his effort to make every lesson meaningful. This alignment in our responses reflects his consistent professionalism, both in the eyes of his colleagues and in the experience of his students.

Now, it is time to reflect on Activity 2.

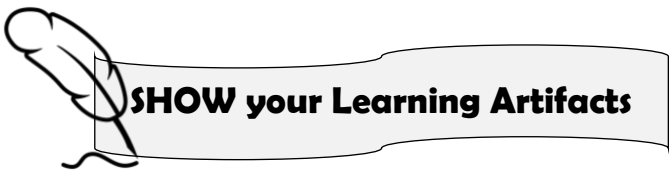

Complete the following sentences as your reflections on the results of Activity 2.

1. As a future teacher, the results imply that I should

- As a future teacher, the results imply that I should strive to improve my professional skills by mastering my subjects, learning new teaching strategies, and staying updated with educational trends. I should also build good relationships with students and practice patience, empathy, and dedication. Like Sir Romnel, I will keep learning and reflecting to grow as an effective and compassionate teacher. I will also consider my students in everything that I do in order to be an effective and efficient teacher like Sir Rommel.

2. If all the teachers teaching today possess the professional characteristics as the teacher/teachers observed then learners will be

- If all the teachers teaching today possess the professional characteristics as Sir Rommel, then learners will be more inspired, motivated, and confident in their learning. They will feel valued and supported, which will help them develop curiosity, critical thinking, and love for learning. This will produce learners who are not only intelligent but also kind, responsible, and ready to contribute to society.

OBSERVATIONS OF TEACHING -LEARNING IN ACTUAL SCHOOL ENVIRONMENT

Episode 14-The Teacher as a PERSON and as a PROFESSIONAL

During my observation, I noticed several personal and professional qualities of the teacher that really left an impression on me. One of the qualities I admired most was his balanced use of technology and traditional teaching methods. He believes that students should not depend too much on technology because they also need to develop their own thinking and resourcefulness. For example, instead of letting students type their work, he encourages them to write by hand. I believe this simple practice helps students improve their writing skills, focus better, and become more engaged in what they are doing.

I also admired the way he builds a good and supportive relationship with his students. The students seemed comfortable asking questions and sharing their answers without being afraid of making mistakes. When a student gives a wrong answer, he does not immediately judge them. Instead, he encourages them to think about their answer and learn from their mistake. I also noticed how patient he is when dealing with misbehavior. He handles situations calmly and respectfully, which helps maintain a positive classroom environment. Because of this, students feel more comfortable participating and expressing themselves.

Another quality that stood out to me was his knowledge and openness. He is confident and knowledgeable about the subjects he teaches, but at the same time, he is open to the ideas and opinions of his students. Even when he is not completely sure about something, he is willing to listen and learn. For me, this shows humility and reminds students that learning does not stop, even for teachers. Observing him inspired me to apply some of these qualities in my future teaching career. I learned that being patient, encouraging, open-minded, and supportive can help create a classroom where students feel safe, valued, and motivated to learn.
